CHAPTER OF GLORY

DORTHA CARMICHAEL IN DESPERATE BATTLE IN PHILIPPINES.

WOMEN ASBREASTWORK

Children Also Were Willing Living Forts Behind Which Savage Moros Fought Americans.

The Democrat-Forum has just received the following descriptive letter from a Nodaway county young man, telling of a battle he recently engaged in in the Philippines, where he is in the U. S. army service.

The young soldier is Dortha Carmichael, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Carmichael of near Pickering. He enlisted a year and a half ago and has been in the Philippines since a year ago last April. His letter reads:

Camp Stotsenburg, Pampanga, P. I., June 26, 1913.—Editor Democrat-Forum: The history of modern warfare contains no parallel to the five days of incessant battle on the slopes and crest of Mount Bagsak, which ended Monday, June 23. Driven inch by inch into the crater of the mount, bitterly contesting and charging dearly for each of the outer intrenchments, Amil surrendered to the irresistible onmarch of the American forces.

The last stand of Amil will go down in history of our times a chapter of glory for the men who fought desperately with ccol and dauntless courage.

And as much may be said for the death-scorning victims of their own fanaticism, who, until the last man fell bullet riddled, hurled defiance into the teeth of the closing circle which meant their end on earth.

Monday ended forever the Moro problem, as it applied to that element of Moros who fed their bravery to a point of defiance on the forbearance of Americans.

Bagsak, hereditary stronghold of renegades, and the scene of more battles than the written history of Jolo will ever contain, is subdued.

Happily for the peace of officers and men who took part in the battle of Bagsak, no women and children were made the innocent, if willing, breastworks behind which the fighting men could mow down American and native troops.

Without divulging his purpose, General Pershing planned the attack on Bakaak before leaving Zamboanga. To the last detail it proved to be a perfect success. General Pershing knew that the women and children did not stay in the cattas during the night. Food was scarce, and when night drew near women and children descended the slopes to the lowlands to forage for the warriors above. So quickly and secretly was the move from Jolo made by night that when the sun arose on June 19 a line was drawn around the base of Bagsak, cutting off all retreat for those below, and leaving the defenders of the cottas without a single source of supply. Then came the placing of the mountain batteries commanded by Captains VanNata and McKinney.

The men of the Eighth cavalry were transferred into artillerymen over night, and so accurate was their aim that the tops of the cottas were completely destroyed before the Americans began the ascent of the crater.

We had much difficulty in ascending. The mountain batteries were hauled up the perpendicular sides with block and tackle, the men ascended hand over hand, up vines and clinging from one vine to another.

The cottas occupied by the Moros were excavated straight into the ground seven feet. Around the walls within them were crude benches high enough to stand on and fire on the attacking forces. On their crests were placed heavy loopholed logs, which protected their marksmen against return fire. And it was only when these were dislodged by artillery fire that the troops could get fair action against them.

So steep are the sides of Begsak that when the occasional squad of desperate men, who would pour over the rims of the cottas to rush the lines before their legs supported them on the steep sides of the hill, their bullet-riddled bodies would roll like logs through our lines and find lodgment against some boulders below. As they came catapaulting, our ranks would break to let them through, then close again to watch for the next onrush.

So we advanced until the very rim of the cottas were reached, then into the pit was poured a rain of death. There were four of these cottas or pits, completely surrounding the mound. We would drive them from oue on up to the next one.

On June 23 we were at Amil's last stronghold, the most bitterly contested one of them all. It took seven hours to advance fifty yards, then two hours more of desperate fighting, during which, at times, the crater cotta vomited over its rim scores of wild-eyed fighting men to whom death means glory.

Then we were at the rim of Amil's last stronghold. Then hell broke loose, as from every side a leaden hail poured in upon the fanatics.

Gradually the smoke cleared away, and it rolled skyward a pall of death. Peace dwells once more on the island of Jolo. When we called the roll that night we found just seventeen Americans killed, twenty-three wounded, against 317 Moros killed.

IS WANTED IN ST. JOSEPH.

Frank Bradbury, Who Was Arrested Here, to Be Taken to St. Joseph.

Sheriff Ed Wallace arrested Frank Bradbury Wednesday morning for investigation and found out that the man is wanted in St. Joseph for embezzlement of $61. The St. Joseph authorities will come this evening after Bradbury. The arrest of Bradbury was made on behalf of J. J. Heeny of St. Joseph, who was in Maryville Wednesday morning on business. Heeny is the man that Bradbury took the money from, it is claimed. When Heeny saw Bradbury he at once told Sheriff Wallace to take the man as there was a warrant in St. Joseph for his arrest.

WAIVED PRELIMINARY.

"Parnell" Greenelsh Up Before Justice McDougal, But Bound Over to September Term.

"Parnell" Greenelsh, who was arrested at Burlington Junction last Saturday, charged with breaking into the depot at that place, waived his preliminary hearing Tuesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace R. L. McDougal and was bound over to the September term of circuit court. Greenelsh is charged with burglary and larceny.

The preliminary hearing of Dr. J. E. Neeley of Elmo, charged with bigamy, will take place before Justice R. L. McDougal, August 7. He gave bond for $500 for his appearance at the hearing. The bond was signed by Charles Beaver of Elmo.

HORSE FELL ON HIM.

Ravenwood Boy Badly Injured in Accident On Tuesday.

When his horse slipped and fell on him, William Chaney, the son of John Chaney, living three and one-half miles southeast of Ravenwood, was knocked unconscious, bruised and hurt on the head about 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. The boy, who is about 17 years old, did not regain consciousness until this morning. His hurts do not seem to be serious. Young Chaney was riding to one of the neighbors to help with the threshing when the accident happened.

Fire Burns Thresher and Grain.

A separator, straw stack, a wagon and seventy bushels of wheat and several shocks of grain were destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon on the farm of R. W. Bridges, two miles south of Barnard. John Fields and George Swartz were running the thresher. They had been to dinner and had come out to the field at 1 o'clock to resume work. Fields raked the fire out of the engine, when the coals exploded like a flash of powder, setting fire to everything near.

TO REBUILD TOWER

WORK WILL BE STARTED BY CHICAGO BRIDGE AND IRON CO.

THE BOILERS ARE LOST

B. P. W. Worrying Over Non-Arrival of New Machinery—Must Pump to Capacity.

Work will start the first of next week on the new water tower for Maryville. That's the information that the board of public works received Wednesday. The work on the tower is to be done by the Chicago Bridge and Iron company.

The board of public works is worrying about two new boilers that were shipped from Dayton, O., about ten days ago. No word has been received of them. They were supposed to be here several days ago, so they could be installed in the city plant. The Merkle-Hines company of Kansas City has the contract for the boilers and will do the work. Also the new pumps to be put in the water plant were ordered and are expected here next week.

When the machinery and material arrive then active work will commence on repairing the plant. It will probably take some two months, but when it is finished Maryville will have a good water plant.

The present water tower is to be torn down to the forty foot line, then a structural steel tower and tank is to be erected. The tank will have a capacity of 150,000 gallons. While the work is being done on the tower it will be cut off from water service and the direct pressure had. It will be necessary not only to run the pumps night and day, but also to get a higher rate of speed and the gauges to be watched more closely.

NEEDS NITROGEN

THAT AND HUMUS ARE THE SOIL REQUIREMENTS.

SOY BEANS ARE FIXERS

Normal Experiment Field Testing Eight Varieties That May Be Seen On Alfalfa Day.

Charles D. Bellows has a splendid stand of soy beans on his farm, west of town that were put in the hill with the cowpeas attachment to the corn planter. The soy beans are nitrogen fixing plants, and when planted with the corn it in no way affects the tending of the corn. It serves a double purpose. The soil is enriched and the beans are cut at the same time the corn is and is placed in the silo. The combination of the beans and the corn furnishes a balanced ration, the beans being rich in proteins.

The question in this vicinity is and has been, what is the best variety to use with the corn? On the experiment field, north of the Normal, there are eight varieties of soy beans that are being tested out. These may be seen, together with the cowpeas which are planted with corn near where the alfalfa demonstration will be given on Friday.

Prof. J. E. Cameron of the Normal agricultural department says that the great need of the soil in this section is more nitrogen and more humus and not so much commercial fertilizers.

The meeting was well attended and there were quite a number present from out of town. The visitors were Mrs. Fred Burns, Mrs. Charles Mow, Miss Nellie Sims, Mrs. J. S. Casteel, Mrs. Clarence Steiger, Mrs. Howard Beedle, Mrs. S. E. Hoover, Mrs. Bert Stoneburner, Mrs. Fred Lyle, Miss Mattie Bishop and Miss Runda Smith of Ravenwood Eastern Star lodge; Mrs. E. L. Moore of the Alva, Mo., lodge, and Miss Frankie Carroll of the Sheridan lodge. After the lodge meeting refreshments were served and a social time had. Mrs. Bowles left Maryville today for Gallatin, where she will conduct a lodge of instruction.

NOT MANY ON FIRST TOUR.

Chautauqua Boosters Visited a Few Towns Last Evening—To Go to Pickering and Hopkins.

The first of the twilight tours advertising the Nodaway Chautauqua, August 9 to 17, was made Tuesday evening. Ravenwood, Parnell and Sheridan were the towns visited. At each place the Maryville Concert band gave a short program, and posters and Chautauqua program books were left in the business houses.

The usual number of cars with people taking the trip merely for pleasure were not present last night to swell the size of the touring party. The four cars contained a small business-like party composed largely of Manager Landon, his helpers and the band.

The trip of the Chautauqua boosters this evening will be to Pickering and Hopkins. The party will leave Maryville at 6:15 o'clock. A large number of people have signified that they would make the trip. The party will attend the Chautauqua which is now in progress at Hopkins. The band will be taken along.

IS NOW IN PROGRESS.

Hopkins Chautauqua Opened This Afternoon With a Large Attendance.

The Hopkins Chautauqua is now in progress, and large crowds are expected. The new park, just opened up by the citizens, is an ideal place for a summer outing, the stately walnut trees making a magnificent shade, and the park within a few blocks of the business part of town, making it easy of access. The committee in charge have done good work the past week, cleaning out the undergrowth, dead trees, putting in two new bridges, one for foot passage and the other for teams and autos. This latter bridge is located west of the foot bridge, and all vehicles will be requested to drive on the street running north from William Jeffries' residence, thus giving the people who have to walk the benefit of cleaner streets.

The committee, with their assistants, were busy Tuesday selling the last installment of tickets, and late in the day A. J. Gordon, chairman of the committee, was heard to complain that the supply of children's tickets was exhausted, almost every child in town wanting to "play Indian" at the Chautauqua.

The ladies of the Christian church will serve lunch and ice cream and will be prepared to serve the people in the best possible manner.

The program begins this (Wednesday) afternoon, and each succeeding day is said to be better until the closing day, Sunday, which is said to be the best of all.

Will Lecture at the Normal.

Frank Stockdale of Chicago will lecture at the Normal next Friday evening. Stereopticon views and moving pictures will be given. The subject is "The Dawn of Plenty." The lecture is under the auspices of the Normal, and a small admission fee of twenty-five cents will be charged.

Miss Nellie Morford of Pickering visited in Maryville Wednesday with her aunt, Mrs. P. J. Lahr.

WILL WRITE BOOK

CORRESPONDENTS ON ALFALFA SPECIAL TO MAKE RECORD.

A CHANCE TO ADVERTISE

Upon the Size, Enthusiasm and Success of the Meetings Will Depend the Prominence Maryville Gets.

In two days Maryville and Nodaway county will have an opportunity to advertise themselves such as they have never had before. This will be when the alfalfa special comes Friday, August 1. And furthermore, it will be free advertising. Charles M. Carroll of the International Harvester company was in Maryville Tuesday, and he told of the plan. It is this:

With the alfalfa special and its lecturers will come representatives of the Saturday Evening Post, Chicago Tribune and Inter Ocean, Des Moines Daily Capital, and Register and Leader, St. Joseph News-Press and Gazette, Successful Farming, Iowa Homestead, Iowa Farmer and Wallace's Farmer of Des Moines, Fruit Grower, Profitable Farming, Kansas City Post and Associated Press. These men will keep their papers supplied with the news of the meetings in the different places.

But they are going to do more than that. After the tour is completed they are going to write a book of it. This book will contain clippings from the newspapers in the towns where the meetings are held, pictures of the train, towns and fields where the meetings take place, accounts of the meetings and any special features that come up. Copies of this book will be sent all over the United States to alfalfa growers, and will tell them what is being done in other parts of the country.

The prominence of Maryville and Nodaway county in this book will depend upon the size, enthusiasm and success of the meetings here. The stops which will be made in the county next Friday, outside of Maryville, are Barnard, Pickering and Hopkins. The meetings in and around Maryville will be held from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. of that day. The places at which they will be held are given in another part of this paper.

One speaker will be conveyed by C. G. McMillen in his car, at 4 o'clock, to the farm of Omar Strong, one mile from Pickering, where he will address those who gather there to hear the alfalfa question discussed. He will be taken from Pickering to Hopkins by Mr. McMillen, where he will leave on the northbound train.

Brink, was 103 this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. It was also 103 on Tuesday. The forecast for tonight and Thursday is for thunder showers.

The highest mark it has been this summer was on July 16, when it was 105.

Miss Nelle Campbell drew the Chautauqua ticket at the Star theater Tuesday night.

A Reply From Rev. Royston.

Editor Democrat-Forum: I wish to reply to a couple of articles that appeared in The Democrat-Forum of July 28, which were written in denunciation of an article concerning the "Barnard Three Days of Fun," of which I was the author.

In the first place, I notice a list of names attached to one of the bills of complaint. I also notice that one of these men appears on the list as a merchant, but he has been out of the business for almost two years. I furthermore observe that a large number of the leading business men of this town have failed to sign this article. I am also led to wonder why none of the farmers have attached their names to it.

Some of the Barnard people seem to have misunderstood me and have misrepresented me. I did not mention graft anywhere in the article, although I have no doubt that there is a good bit of graft connected with it. However, I believe that a number of the business men who have helped boost the picnic movement for many years think it is all right. But is there not a probability of a person being mistaken in the judgment he places upon a community question of which he is an integral part? And while I spoke in general terms concerning the people being either financially concerned or else of the lower moral sentiment, I did not intend to imply that all were money blind who were back of the movement. But believing that there were some who were so financially involved I added: "I hope the time will come when people will get a better view of good * * * and quit holding the almighty dollar so close to the eyes as to shut out all else." While this is not the truth in every individual case, it is the truth in a general sense, and I was speaking in a general sense. So don't think I am trying to insinuate that you are all thieves and grafters.

But, according to the reply in one of these articles, no one had ever received a penny from this enterprise—perhaps not directly. But do you believe people who would give large sums of money to the committee every year toward an assembly that would not give them some returns as a result? How much more merchandise of all kinds, including groceries, dry goods, hardware and harness materials are sold as the result of such a gathering? How many more meals and cold drinks are sold on these days than on any other day of the year? All the people who come here from other towns and communities spend a part of their surplus money here. Perhaps no one has received a penny directly, but what does it matter whether a man gets a dollar directly or indirectly just so he gets it—that is what he is working for.

Then the article goes on to say that the picnic is known far and wide as one of the largest and cleanest gatherings in the state. I am willing to submit the answering of this statement to the people who attend here from other towns or to any unconcerned, inteligent man of this community.

And again, in one of the articles the writer proceeds by asking questions. The query, "Did he consider the fact that such speakers as Governor Folk, B. Raleigh Martin and W. A. Blagg * * * furnish as good an example to the young mind as an Chautauqua lecturer?" I reply, yes. There are always some good features to it—if there wasn't who would come? I don't care how mean a person or institution may be, they will have a little good mixed with the bad. Even Sodom and Gommorrah had some good things that might have been said of them, yet they were wicked enough to be destroyed by fire. I have no complaint to make against the good in anything. It's the evil that I am fighting.

Another question that appeared was: "Does he know that all young people will spend their money in having a good time, etc." I reply, some of them will, and I have no objection to anyone spending a portion of their money for the right kind of a good time, but I would discriminate as to what is implied in a good time.

I also want to say that I can see some good in the home-coming idea, if that was all. But the evil undercurrent and bad after-effect of this affair in general absolutely overbalances all the good that might come from it. Therefore, as a minister of the Gospel, aside from any personal feeling in regard to the so-called three days of fun, I am now and forever against it.

I also notice that I am drawn over the fire and have the flames of ridicule kindled about me for not attending the Barnard Chautauqua. I will say that I have always helped to boost a good thing when I had a chance. I have attended several of the Chautauquas of this state, and also a few in the neighboring states, but I am sorry to say that I was never treated with as little respect and courtesy as here. Notwithstanding all this, I volunteered and helped distribute some of their bills, and I will give any man $10 who will bring evidence that I spoke in any way but complimentary of the Barnard Chautauqua movement. I was also duty bound to be away most of the time. But since I was deprived of all the courtesies which are always granted by all Chautauquas everywhere to ministers of the Gospel, I think I should have a right to choose the same as any other free-born citizen whether I should attend or not. There were other citizens who even went so far as to oppose the Chautauqua idea. Why don't you hang them and get them out of the way, rather than try to kill the influence of a man who is trying to help the religious conditions of your community.

One of the writers said that if my personal knowledge of the three days of fun was no greater than my personal knowledge of the Barnard Chautauqua, my opinion was of no value, since I didn't attend. Any wideawake person or unprejudiced resident of this community can judge these two gatherings by the different effects they have upon the moral atmosphere of a community. I have never attended either heaven or hell, yet I have a very valuable opinion that they are quite different—haven't you?

Hoping that I have now been understood, and hoping everything may result for the glory of God's cause and kingdom in this community, I shall close.

Yours respectfully,
W. E. ROYSTON,
Pastor Barnard M. E. Church.

MULHALL'S OFFER TURNED DOWN

Lobbyist Says Clark, Mann and Gompers Refused Story.

UNDERWOOD CALLS MULHALL

Majority Leader Says Lobbyist Is Liar and Blackmailer—Denies He Ever Talked to Him About Legislation Pending Before Congress.

Washington, July 30.—Martin M. Mulhall told the senate lobby committee that at one time he proposed an investigation of his activities as a lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers to former Chairman Wilson of the labor committee, Speaker Clark and Republican Leader Mann and that all turned down his proposal.

Mulhall testified he made his proposal to Wilson, now secretary of labor, personally and to Clark and Mann in a letter through Representative McDermott of Illinois. He testified he had offered his correspondence to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and that Gompers had declined.

"Were the letters or their substance laid before Mr. Wilson?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I gave Mr. Wilson an understanding of what I had," replied Mulhall.

Speaker Clark and Mr. Mann, Mulhall said, would not have the matter "come up."

"Did you have a talk with either?" asked Senator Cummins.

"No, sir."

"Did you offer to sell them to Gompers?"

"No. I offered to give them."

Majority Leader Underwood of the house denounced Mulhall as a "liar and a blackmailer." Mr. Underwood appeared before the senate lobby committee to deny that Mulhall had ever talked to him about legislation before congress.

VOLUME 4. MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, WEDNESDAY, JULY 30, 1913 NO 49.

CHAPTER OF GLORY

The Democrat-Forum has just received the following descriptive letter from a Nodaway county young man, telling of a battle he recently engaged in in the Philippines, where he is in the U. S. army service.

The young soldier is Dortha Carmichael, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Carmichael of near Pickering. He enlisted a year and a half ago and has been in the Philippines since a year ago last April. His letter reads:

Camp Stotsenburg, Pampanga, P. I., June 26, 1913.—Editor Democrat-Forum: The history of modern warfare contains no parallel to the five days of incessant battle on the slopes and crest of Mount Bagsak, which ended Monday, June 23. Driven inch by inch into the crater of the mount, bitterly contesting and charging dearly for each of the outer intrenchments, Amil surrendered to the irresistible onmarch of the American forces.

The last stand of Amil will go down in history of our times a chapter of glory for the men who fought desperately with cool and dauntless courage.

And as much may be said for the death-scorning victims of their own fanaticism, who, until the last man fell bullet riddled, hurled defiance into the teeth of the closing circle which meant their end on earth.

Monday ended forever the Moro problem, as it applied to that element of Moros who fed their bravery to a point of defiance on the forbearance of Americans.

Bagsak, hereditary stronghold of renegades, and the scene of more battles than the written history of Jolo will ever contain, is subdued.

Happily for the peace of officers and men who took part in the battle of Bagsak, no women and children were made the innocent, if willing, breastworks behind which the fighting men could mow down American and native troops.

Without divulging his purpose, General Pershing planned the attack on Bakaak before leaving Zamboanga. To the last detail it proved to be a perfect success. General Pershing knew that the women and children did not stay in the cattas during the night. Food was scarce, and when night drew near women and children descended the slopes to the lowlands to forage for the warriors above. So quickly and secretly was the move from Jolo made by night that when the sun arose on June 19 a line was drawn around the base of Bagsak, cutting off all retreat for those below, and leaving the defenders of the cottas without a single source of supply. Then came the placing of the mountain batteries commanded by Captains VanNata and McKinney.

The men of the Eighth cavalry were transferred into artillerymen over night, and so accurate was their aim that the tops of the cottas were completely destroyed before the Americans began the ascent of the crater.

We had much difficulty in ascending. The mountain batteries were hauled up the perpendicular sides with block and tackle, the men ascended hand over hand, up vines and clinging from one vine to another.

The cottas occupied by the Moros were excavated straight into the ground seven feet. Around the walls within them were crude benches high enough to stand on and fire on the attacking forces. On their crests were placed heavy loopholed logs, which protected their marksmen against return fire. And it was only when these were dislodged by artillery fire that the troops could get fair action against them.

So steep are the sides of Begsak that when the occasional squad of desperate men, who would pour over the rims of the cottas to rush the lines before their legs supported them on the steep sides of the hill, their bullet-riddled bodies would roll like logs through our lines and find lodgment against some boulders below. As they came catapaulting, our ranks would break to let them through, then close again to watch for the next onrush.

So we advanced until the very rim of the cottas were reached, then into the pit was poured a rain of death. There were four of these cottas or pits, completely surrounding the mound. We would drive them from oue on up to the next one.

On June 23 we were at Amil's last stronghold, the most bitterly contested one of them all. It took seven hours to advance fifty yards, then two hours more of desperate fighting, during which, at times, the crater cotta vomited over its rim scores of wild-eyed fighting men to whom death means glory.

Then we were at the rim of Amil's last stronghold. Then hell broke loose, as from every side a leaden hail poured in upon the fanatics.

Gradually the smoke cleared away, and it rolled skyward a pall of death. Peace dwells once more on the island of Jolo. When we called the roll that night we found just seventeen Americans killed, twenty-three wounded, against 317 Moros killed.

Heeny is the man that Bradbury took the money from, it is claimed. When Heeny saw Bradbury he at once told Sheriff Wallace to take the man as there was a warrant in St. Joseph for his arrest.

Fields raked the fire out of the engine, when the coals exploded like a flash of powder, setting fire to everything near.

TO REBUILD TOWER

WORK WILL BE STARTED BY CHICAGO BRIDGE AND IRON CO.

THE BOILERS ARE LOST

B. P. W. Worrying Over Non-Arrival of New Machinery—Must Pump to Capacity.

Work will start the first of next week on the new water tower for Maryville. That's the information that the board of public works received Wednesday. The work on the tower is to be done by the Chicago Bridge and Iron company.

The board of public works is worrying about two new boilers that were shipped from Dayton, O., about ten days ago. No word has been received of them. They were supposed to be here several days ago, so they could be installed in the city plant. The Merkle-Hines company of Kansas City has the contract for the boilers and will do the work. Also the new pumps to be put in the water plant were ordered and are expected here next week.

When the machinery and material arrive then active work will commence on repairing the plant. It will probably take some two months, but when it is finished Maryville will have a good water plant.

The present water tower is to be torn down to the forty foot line, then a structural steel tower and tank is to be erected. The tank will have a capacity of 150,000 gallons. While the work is being done on the tower it will be cut off from water service and the direct pressure had. It will be necessary not only to run the pumps night and day, but also to get a higher rate of speed and the gauges to be watched more closely.

NEEDS NITROGEN

THAT AND HUMUS ARE THE SOIL REQUIREMENTS.

SOY BEANS ARE FIXERS

Normal Experiment Field Testing Eight Varieties That May Be Seen On Alfalfa Day.

Charles D. Bellows has a splendid stand of soy beans on his farm, west of town that were put in the hill with the cowpeas attachment to the corn planter. The soy beans are nitrogen fixing plants, and when planted with the corn it in no way affects the tending of the corn. It serves a double purpose. The soil is enriched and the beans are cut at the same time the corn is and is placed in the silo. The combination of the beans and the corn furnishes a balanced ration, the beans being rich in proteins.

The question in this vicinity is and has been, what is the best variety to use with the corn? On the experiment field, north of the Normal, there are eight varieties of soy beans that are being tested out. These may be seen, together with the cowpeas which are planted with corn near where the alfalfa demonstration will be given on Friday.

Prof. J. E. Cameron of the Normal agricultural department says that the great need of the soil in this section is more nitrogen and more humus and not so much commercial fertilizers.

Miss Beulah McCopping of Bolckow, a recent graduate of the Maryville Business college, went to Omaha a week ago in company with her grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Houghtaling, also of Bolckow, to visit relatives. Soon after her arrival a young lady employed in one of the leading real estate offices of Omaha left on her vacation, and Miss McCoppin was asked to take her place, for which she qualified, and is now at her work and giving excellent satisfaction.

Miss Chloa Hoshor returned to her home near Arkoe Tuesday evening from a visit with Miss Roxie McGinniss of near Bedison.

LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.

Eastern Star Had Big Time Tuesday Night—Grand Lecturer, Mrs. Sallie Bowles, Here.

A lodge of instruction was held Tuesday evening at the Eastern Star lodge hall, being conducted by the grand lecturer, Mrs. Sallie M. Bowles of Granby, Mo. The meeting was well attended and there were quite a number present from out of town. The visitors were Mrs. Fred Burns, Mrs. Charles Mow, Miss Nellie Sims, Mrs. J. S. Casteel, Mrs. Clarence Steiger, Mrs. Howard Beedle, Mrs. S. E. Hoover, Mrs. Bert Stoneburner, Mrs. Fred Lyle, Miss Mattie Bishop and Miss Runda Smith of Ravenwood Eastern Star lodge; Mrs. E. L. Moore of the Alva, Mo., lodge, and Miss Frankie Carroll of the Sheridan lodge. After the lodge meeting refreshments were served and a social time had. Mrs. Bowles left Maryville today for Gallatin, where she will conduct a lodge of instruction.

NOT MANY ON FIRST TOUR.

Chautauqua Boosters Visited a Few Towns Last Evening—To Go to Pickering and Hopkins.

The first of the twilight tours advertising the Nodaway Chautauqua, August 9 to 17, was made Tuesday evening. Ravenwood, Parnell and Sheridan were the towns visited. At each place the Maryville Concert band gave a short program, and posters and Chautauqua program books were left in the business houses.

The usual number of cars with people taking the trip merely for pleasure were not present last night to swell the size of the touring party. The four cars contained a small business-like party composed largely of Manager Landon, his helpers and the band.

The trip of the Chautauqua boosters this evening will be to Pickering and Hopkins. The party will leave Maryville at 6:15 o'clock. A large number of people have signified that they would make the trip. The party will attend the Chautauqua which is now in progress at Hopkins. The band will be taken along.

IS NOW IN PROGRESS.

Hopkins Chautauqua Opened This Afternoon With a Large Attendance.

The Hopkins Chautauqua is now in progress, and large crowds are expected. The new park, just opened up by the citizens, is an ideal place for a summer outing, the stately walnut trees making a magnificent shade, and the park within a few blocks of the business part of town, making it easy of access. The committee in charge have done good work the past week, cleaning out the undergrowth, dead trees, putting in two new bridges, one for foot passage and the other for teams and autos. This latter bridge is located west of the foot bridge, and all vehicles will be requested to drive on the street running north from William Jeffries' residence, thus giving the people who have to walk the benefit of cleaner streets.

The committee, with their assistants, were busy Tuesday selling the last installment of tickets, and late in the day A. J. Gordon, chairman of the committee, was heard to complain that the supply of children's tickets was exhausted, almost every child in town wanting to "play Indian" at the Chautauqua.

The ladies of the Christian church will serve lunch and ice cream and will be prepared to serve the people in the best possible manner.

The program begins this (Wednesday) afternoon, and each succeeding day is said to be better until the closing day, Sunday, which is said to be the best of all.

Will Lecture at the Normal.

Frank Stockdale of Chicago will lecture at the Normal next Friday evening. Stereopticon views and moving pictures will be given. The subject is "The Dawn of Plenty." The lecture is under the auspices of the Normal, and a small admission fee of twenty-five cents will be charged.

WILL WRITE BOOK

CORRESPONDENTS ON ALFALFA SPECIAL TO MAKE RECORD.

A CHANCE TO ADVERTISE

Upon the Size, Enthusiasm and Success of the Meetings Will Depend the Prominence Maryville Gets.

In two days Maryville and Nodaway county will have an opportunity to advertise themselves such as they have never had before. This will be when the alfalfa special comes Friday, August 1. And furthermore, it will be free advertising. Charles M. Carroll of the International Harvester company was in Maryville Tuesday, and he told of the plan. It is this:

With the alfalfa special and its lecturers will come representatives of the Saturday Evening Post, Chicago Tribune and Inter Ocean, Des Moines Daily Capital, and Register and Leader, St. Joseph News-Press and Gazette, Successful Farming, Iowa Homestead, Iowa Farmer and Wallace's Farmer of Des Moines, Fruit Grower, Profitable Farming, Kansas City Post and Associated Press. These men will keep their papers supplied with the news of the meetings in the different places.

But they are going to do more than that. After the tour is completed they are going to write a book of it. This book will contain clippings from the newspapers in the towns where the meetings are held, pictures of the train, towns and fields where the meetings take place, accounts of the meetings and any special features that come up. Copies of this book will be sent all over the United States to alfalfa growers, and will tell them what is being done in other parts of the country.

The prominence of Maryville and Nodaway county in this book will depend upon the size, enthusiasm and success of the meetings here. The stops which will be made in the county next Friday, outside of Maryville, are Barnard, Pickering and Hopkins. The meetings in and around Maryville will be held from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. of that day. The places at which they will be held are given in another part of this paper.

One speaker will be conveyed by C. G. McMillen in his car, at 4 o'clock, to the farm of Omar Strong, one mile from Pickering, where he will address those who gather there to hear the alfalfa question discussed. He will be taken from Pickering to Hopkins by Mr. McMillen, where he will leave on the northbound train.

Brink, was 103 this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. It was also 103 on Tuesday. The forecast for tonight and Thursday is for thunder showers.

The highest mark it has been this summer was on July 16, when it was 105.

Miss Nelle Campbell drew the Chautauqua ticket at the Star theater Tuesday night.

A Reply From Rev. Royston.

Editor Democrat-Forum: I wish to reply to a couple of articles that appeared in The Democrat-Forum of July 28, which were written in denunciation of an article concerning the "Barnard Three Days of Fun," of which I was the author.

In the first place, I notice a list of names attached to one of the bills of complaint. I also notice that one of these men appears on the list as a merchant, but he has been out of the business for almost two years. I furthermore observe that a large number of the leading business men of this town have failed to sign this article. I am also led to wonder why none of the farmers have attached their names to it.

Some of the Barnard people seem to have misunderstood me and have misrepresented me. I did not mention graft anywhere in the article, although I have no doubt that there is a good bit of graft connected with it. However, I believe that a number of the business men who have helped boost the picnic movement for many years think it is all right. But is there not a probability of a person being mistaken in the judgment he places upon a community question of which he is an integral part? And while I spoke in general terms concerning the people being either financially concerned or else of the lower moral sentiment, I did not intend to imply that all were money blind who were back of the movement. But believing that there were some who were so financially involved I added: "I hope the time will come when people will get a better view of good * * * and quit holding the almighty dollar so close to the eyes as to shut out all else." While this is not the truth in every individual case, it is the truth in a general sense, and I was speaking in a general sense. So don't think I am trying to insinuate that you are all thieves and grafters.

But, according to the reply in one of these articles, no one had ever received a penny from this enterprise—perhaps not directly. But do you believe people who would give large sums of money to the committee every year toward an assembly that would not give them some returns as a result? How much more merchandise of all kinds, including groceries, dry goods, hardware and harness materials are sold as the result of such a gathering? How many more meals and cold drinks are sold on these days than on any other day of the year? All the people who come here from other towns and communities spend a part of their surplus money here. Perhaps no one has received a penny directly, but what does it matter whether a man gets a dollar directly or indirectly just so he gets it—that is what he is working for.

Then the article goes on to say that the picnic is known far and wide as one of the largest and cleanest gatherings in the state. I am willing to submit the answering of this statement to the people who attend here from other towns or to any unconcerned, intelligent man of this community.

And again, in one of the articles the writer proceeds by asking questions. The query, "Did he consider the fact that such speakers as Governor Folk, B. Raleigh Martin and W. A. Blagg * * * furnish as good an example to the young mind as an Chautauqua lecturer?" I reply, yes. There are always some good features to it—if there wasn't who would come? I don't care how mean a person or institution may be, they will have a little good mixed with the bad. Even Sodom and Gommorrah had some good things that might have been said of them, yet they were wicked enough to be destroyed by fire. I have no complaint to make against the good in anything. It's the evil that I am fighting.

Another question that appeared was: "Does he know that all young people will spend their money in having a good time, etc." I reply, some of them will, and I have no objection to anyone spending a portion of their money for the right kind of a good time, but I would discriminate as to what is implied in a good time.

I also want to say that I can see some good in the home-coming idea, if that was all. But the evil undercurrent and bad after-effect of this affair in general absolutely overbalances all the good that might come from it. Therefore, as a minister of the Gospel, aside from any personal feeling in regard to the so-called three days of fun, I am now and forever against it.

I also notice that I am drawn over the fire and have the flames of ridicule kindled about me for not attending the Barnard Chautauqua. I will say that I have always helped to boost a good thing when I had a chance. I have attended several of the Chautauquas of this state, and also a few in the neighboring states, but I am sorry to say that I was never treated with as little respect and courtesy as here. Notwithstanding all this, I volunteered and helped distribute some of their bills, and I will give any man $10 who will bring evidence that I spoke in any way but complimentary of the Barnard Chautauqua movement. I was also duty bound to be away most of the time. But since I was deprived of all the courtesies which are always granted by all Chautauquas everywhere to ministers of the Gospel, I think I should have a right to choose the same as any other free-born citizen whether I should attend or not. There were other citizens who even went so far as to oppose the Chautauqua idea. Why don't you hang them and get them out of the way, rather than try to kill the influence of a man who is trying to help the religious conditions of your community.

One of the writers said that if my personal knowledge of the three days of fun was no greater than my personal knowledge of the Barnard Chautauqua, my opinion was of no value, since I didn't attend. Any wideawake person or unprejudiced resident of this community can judge these two gatherings by the different effects they have upon the moral atmosphere of a community. I have never attended either heaven or hell, yet I have a very valuable opinion that they are quite different—haven't you?

Hoping that I have now been understood, and hoping everything may result for the glory of God's cause and kingdom in this community, I shall close. Yours respectfully,

W. E. ROYSTON,
Pastor Barnard M. E. Church.

Lobbyist Says Clark, Mann and Gompers Refused Story.

UNDERWOOD CALLS MULHALL

Washington, July 30.—Martin M. Mulhall told the senate lobby committee that at one time he proposed an investigation of his activities as a lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers to former Chairman Wilson of the labor committee, Speaker Clark and Republican Leader Mann and that all turned down his proposal.

Mulhall testified he made his proposal to Wilson, now secretary of labor, personally and to Clark and Mann in a letter through Representative McDermott of Illinois. He testified he had offered his correspondence to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and that Gompers had declined.

"Were the letters or their substance laid before Mr. Wilson?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I gave Mr. Wilson an understanding of what I had," replied Mulhall.

Speaker Clark and Mr. Mann, Mulhall said, would not have the matter "come up."

"Did you have a talk with either?" asked Senator Cummins.

"No, sir."

"Did you offer to sell them to Gompers?"

"No. I offered to give them."

Majority Leader Underwood of the house denounced Mulhall as a "liar and a blackmailer." Mr. Underwood appeared before the senate lobby committee to deny that Mulhall had ever talked to him about legislation before congress.
